U.S. DEMAND EXPECTED ON RUSSIA TODAY

End of Conference Likely If Facts About Germany Are Not Given.

By The Associated Press
LONDON, Dec. 15—A United States demand that the Soviet Union lift the curtain of secrecy surrounding her activities in the eastern zone of Germany was expected to open today's session of the Big Four foreign ministers conference.

U. S. Secretary of State George C. Marshall paved the way for the anticipated U. S. demand by issuing a statement yesterday in which he categorically denied that the United States of Britain had received any profit from transactions in western Germany as charged Friday by Molotov.

He also declared: "The U. S. 'long ago' proposed—without success—a moratorium on the acquisition of foreign ownership of control of property in Germany."

It has scrupulously carried out in its own zone the moratorium it proposed.

It attempted in vain to obtain "factual statements" on the changes in foreign ownership of property in each of the zones of occupation.

There has not been a single case of American acquisition of German property during the entire occupation.

Marshall added that all goods—shipped out of Germany from the American and British zones have been sold at world market prices. And the proceeds have gone to buy "essential imports for the German economy."

He said these German exports amounted to $165,000,000 since the first of the year.

600 HEAR ANNUAL MUSICAL VESPERS

Lecture-Recital Program Presented at Presbyterian Church

An audience of nearly 600 heard the Lecture-Recital club chorus and John Bennett Ham of Springfield, guest baritone soloist, in the annual vesper musical Sunday afternoon at First Presbyterian church. Miss Roseline Manzo was the piano accompanist both for the chorus and for Mr. Ham. The chorus of 60 voices was directed by Miss Elizabeth Edgar, public school music supervisor, and soloists with the chorus were Mrs. Eleanor Smith and Miss Patricia Dearing. Mrs. Anna VonEndt Brown of Mansfield was guest soloist-accompanist for portions of the outstanding "Ave Maria," Bach-Gounod number, the chorus and Mrs. Eliza Williams was organist.

Rev. Howard L. Oelwer, host pastor, offered the invocation and spoke the benediction. Program aids were Roxanna Pauling, Mary Ellen Hinamon, Joan Warner, Ann Glassmeyer, Alla Lee Robinson and Jane Baldauf. A generous contribution for music in veterans hospitals was received at the church doors.

Mr. Ham, who is head of the music department of Wittenberg college at Springfield, presented the groups of numbers. He is in demand as a soloist and has appeared in Marion previously with the Civic chorus. His repertoire included sacred numbers and spirituals. Two Christmas spirituals concluded his part of the program.

Numbers by the chorus were presented in three groups, two in Latin and one in English, and a group of solos sung by the second group, and concluding group composed of two secular numbers and a Christmas lullaby, "Beside His Manger," Gibb.

EUROPEAN AID MESSAGE NEAR

Will Give Long-Range Program This Week, Truman Tells Congress Leaders.

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, Dec. 15—President Truman told congressional leaders today he will have a message for congress this week on long-range European recovery aid.

This assures that the legislators will have the message for study during their vacation between the end of the current special session and the opening of the regular session Jan. 6. Plans are to adjourn the special session Friday.

Both Republican and Democratic leaders were called to the White House to hear Mr. Truman's plans. The President's talk with the group lasted but 15 minutes.

Leaving the parley, Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.), presiding officer of the senate, told reporters: "The President wanted to notify us he will have his message on long-range recovery ready for submission this week."

"He wanted to know our adjournment plan because he wants to submit the message before we leave."

"There was no decision as to when the message will reach us but with adjournment of the special session set for Friday the message will arrive prior to that date."

No Advance Details
Vandenberg added that Mr. Truman did not give the group any details of the message.

Others attending the conference were Senator White (R-Me.), the senate majority leader; Senator Barkley (D-Ky.), minority leader, and Senator Connally (D-Tex.), minority leader of the foreign relations committee; House Speaker Martin (R-Mass), Chairman Eaton (R-NJ) of the house foreign affairs committee; Representative Halleck (R-Ind) house majority leader; Representative Rayburn (D-Tex), house minority leader; and Representative Bloom (D-NY), ranking minority member of the house foreign affairs committee.

From the White House, the leaders went back to the capital where plans were laid to speed final action on a measure approving $397,000,000 of emergency aid for France, Italy, Austria, and China.

The Story of Lolly, British Heroine

Lolly is one of the great heroines of modern times. She is one of the multitude of British housewives, fighting against great odds to clothe and feed her family in the second battle of Britain. The story of Lolly Sergott and how she is making out in her struggle on this threshold of a new winter is a human drama of life in England today. It is touching, tender and spiced with down-to-earth humor.

Told by Inez Robb, star feature writer for International News Service. The story of Lolly is at once that of one woman in millions, and millions of women in one.

Mrs. Robb first met the Sergotts during the black days of the London blitz, early in the war. Now in the second year of peace Mrs. Robb found the family still living within the most devastated section of London. She talked and visited with them for days.

Lolly's story will be published in five chapters starting in The Star today on Page 2.

Ill Veteran's Home Now Has Water As Neighbors Help

By The Associated Press
CLEVELAND, Dec. 15—Thanks to 75 neighbors and former servicemen who laid 170-foot pipeline, water flowed from the faucets today in the home of William Smith Jr., 27-year-old Army veteran suffering from a blood disease.

Smith, now undergoing treatment at Cile veterans administration hospital, moved his wife and baby son into their pre-fabricated home in nearby Chagrin Falls last March.

Everything was right except the plumbing. Village officials decided contractors' bids were too high for extending water and sewer lines to his front yard. A village ordinance also prohibited installation of a septic tank or outhouse.

So for months the former sergeant and his wife carried water in pails from neighbors' homes and hoped city council finally would come to their aid.

Then, after Smith's illness forced his removal to the hospital, neighbors and veterans in the community became aroused. City council still wouldn't budge and so they decided to act themselves.

Yesterday, the group that included one former lieutenant commander and a major, went to work with donated pipe and borrowed tools. Women living nearby served them a big meal at noon.

By night the job was done and water coursed through the pipes.

SCHOOL AT LA RUE CLOSED BY ILLNESS

Special to The Star
LA RUE, Dec. 15 — The La Rue school closed today as a result of the spread of a scarlet fever epidemic in the community.

Eleven children are now under quarantine and eight others have been released after recuperating from the disease which began about the middle of October.

With an epidemic of sore throat and influenza also prevalent in the community it has been difficult to determine when illness has been scarlet fever.

With the closing of the school Supt. C. M. Barden announced that all activities under the direction of the school would be suspended, including basketball games and practice, a Christmas opera by the grade school children, and the veterans' vocational work.

It has not been determined when the school will reopen but will be closed during this week and possibly until after New Years.

SHOE MACHINERY CO. CALLED MONOPOLY

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, Dec. 15—Attorney General Clark today charged the United Shoe Machinery Corporation of Boston with establishing a monopoly in production of machinery for making shoes.

Clark announced a civil anti-trust suit was filed this morning in the U.S. district court at Boston, under the Sherman anti-trust act.

GIRL'S SLAYER GUILTY, WILL ASK NEW TRIAL

Shppard's Attorney Says He Will File Motion; Sentencing Is Delayed.

Attorney Ralph Carhart indicated today that a motion for a new trial for Ray A. Shppard would be filed in Marion county common pleas court possibly as early as Tuesday.

Shppard was found guilty Saturday of first degree murder with a recommendation of mercy in the slaying of Roxie Ann Green. The jury reported its verdict at 3:17 p. m. after deliberating two hours and 35 minutes.

The state had asked the death penalty for the Prospect handyman who confessed he beat the young schoolgirl to death with a hammer.

Concerning the possible appeal if the court overrules his motion for a new trial, Carhart said he had not as yet consulted Shppard as to his wishes. He was to confer with Shppard this afternoon.

Judge Paul D. Smith has not indicated when Shppard will be brought before the court to receive sentence. The date of sentence will hinge on the course of action taken by Shppard's attorneys Ralph and Dwight Carhart.

If a motion for a new trial is not forthcoming, Shppard may soon make the trip to the Ohio penitentiary in Columbus to serve the mandatory life sentence.

According to the Ohio Criminal Code Section 2210-1, the confessed killer of the 16-year-old Prospect High school sophomore may become eligible for parole after serving 20 years of the life sentence. The criminal code originally provided that only subsequent proof of innocence or pardon by the governor could free a person sentenced to life imprisonment after being found guilty of first degree murder by a jury that recommended mercy.

It was amended, however, by an act of the legislature which County Prosecutor James E. Reed said became effective Oct. 11, 1945.

In his charge Saturday morning, Judge Smith informed the jury that a recommendation of mercy in connection with a verdict of guilty to the charge of first degree murder would result in the death penalty to life imprisonment from which the prisoner could be released only by pardon from the governor or subsequent proof of innocence. The jury had a copy of the charge with them during their deliberations.

The state, however, made no move to rectify the error, either while the judge was reading the charge or before the jury retired at 11 a. m. to consider a verdict.

Carl West Was Foreman

Carl W. West of 522 Polk street was chosen foreman of the jury. West who is employed as a truck driver for the City of Marion had the double distinction of being the first colored person to serve in a capital case in Marion county and to be chosen to speak for that body comprising eight men and four women.

After deliberating for 50 minutes, the jury accompanied by the court bailiff Fred Miller lunched at the Hotel Harding returning to the courthouse and the jury room at 1:30 to resume the task of reaching a unanimous verdict.

Shortly after 3:05 p. m. West informed bailiff Miller that the jury had reached a verdict. They had been out two hours and 35 minutes. Agreement had been reached on the fourth ballot. On the first two, three jurors were still set on the death penalty. On the third ballot the count was two and two.

A delay of approximately ten minutes occurred while Shppard was brought back to the courtroom from the county jail where he had been returned at noon.

Courtroom Tense

The courtroom was tense. Very few spectators had bugged from their seats in the interval after the case had been given to the jury. When the word spread that the jury was about to report, additional spectators eager to hear the verdict in Marion county's first murder trial in ten years, crowded into electrically charged atmosphere of the somber courtroom.

Republicans Move for Speedy Anti-Inflation Bill Passage

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, Dec. 15—House G.O.P. leaders ordered an eleventh hour strategy huddle today on their plan to pound the Republican anti-inflation bill to passage without letting the opposition lay a hand on it.

Democrats seethed. Some said the majority party couldn't get away with it.

The idea was to plunk the four-point program before the house with vote to take it or nothing.

Based on voluntary efforts to hold down living costs, the bill then would be pushed to a vote under a procedure so rigid it would:

1. Forbid any changes, restrict debate to 20 minutes for and 20 against, and require a two-thirds majority for passage.

Only a final nod from the leadership was needed to set the plan in motion. And a meeting was arranged for mid morning among Senator Martin (R-Mass), Majority Leader, Halleck of Indiana, and Chairman Wolcott (R-Mich.) of the banking committee, who introduced the bill.

Rank and file Republicans were told to be on the house floor for a showdown shortly after noon.

A strong hint that the "take it or leave it" label would stick came from Halleck, who issued a statement last night saying if this bill fails Democrats "will have to take responsibility" for killing all economic legislation at the special session, scheduled to end this Friday.

Called "Outrageous"

House Democratic leader Rayburn of Texas, cried "outrageous" and "strongarm" tactics.

But Martin predicted the measure would pass with votes to spare.

Then, in the deepening economic schism between the White House and the Republican majority in congress, Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo) declared the G.O.P. has offered the country a "big business" and "pro-monopoly" rather than an anti-inflation bill.

Here's what the Republican measure, up for a house showdown, would do:

1. Permit and encourage business, industry and agriculture to agree on (A) sharing transportation facilities, (B) marketing livestock and poultry in a manner to use grain most effectively, (C) dividing up scarce commodities and (D) regulation speculation on the commodity exchanges.

And such voluntary agreements, when approved by the President, would be immune from anti-trust law prosecutions. However, price fixing would be specifically barred, and no agreement could extend beyond March 1, 1949.

2. Continue export controls for one year from Feb. 29, 1948, and authorize the President to fix maximum mark-up in export prices over domestic prices.

3. Continue for the same period existing presidential power to allocate box cars and other rail transportation facilities.

4. Increase from 24 per cent to 40 per cent the gold reserves behind currency issued by federal reserve banks; increase from 25 per cent to 35 per cent the gold reserves federal reserve banks must carry to support deposits of commercial banks.

COLLEGE FUND AID ADVOCATED

Truman Board Urges Federal Help To Double Enrollment by 1960.

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, Dec. 15—Federal financial help to double college enrollments by 1960 was proposed today by President Truman's commission on higher education.

Adding a denunciation of minority "quota systems" and racial segregation in schooling to its first report, the 28-member body said the United States not only faces shortages of doctors, teachers and others but stands in peril of fostering an "intellectual elite."

Mr. Truman released the 103-page document with a statement urging all citizens "examine it carefully."

"For the great majority of our boys and girls," the report said, "the kind and amount of education they may hope to attain depends, not on their abilities, but on the family or community into which they happen to be born or, worse still, on the color of their skin or the religion of their parents."

The report criticized the "quota system" for admission by which it said many universities deny learning to "certain minorities, particularly to Negroes and Jews."

"This practice is a violation of a major American principle and is contributing to the growing tension in one of the most crucial areas of our democracy," said the commission headed by George F. Zook, president of the American Council on Education.

Discrimination Charged

The report asserted that despite laws guaranteeing equal advancement, inferior education is given to Negroes in the 17 states and the district of Columbia where segregation is practiced.

To perpetuate a system in which the "underprivileged, great and families" supply most of the children, without assuring them full educational opportunity, is "sure to prove disastrous to the level of our culture and to the whole fabric of our democratic institutions," the document contended.

Four southern members of the commission dissented from the (Turn to COLLEGE, Page 12)

JEWES ASK OUSTER OF ALL ARAB TROOPS

By The Associated Press
JERUSALEM, Dec. 15—Jewish leaders called upon the Palestine government today to order the immediate evacuation from Palestine of all Trans-Jordan Arab Legion troops, a detachment of which yesterday machinegunned a truck convoy near Tel Aviv, killing 14 Jews and wounding 15 others.

The Arab Legion forces, which are offered by Britons, are on loan to the Palestine government for police duty in the Holy Land. Demands for withdrawal of the forces coincided with a grenade attack on a truckload of Arab legion troops near the Mustajir police barracks in Jerusalem. One soldier was injured in the bombing.

A spokesman for Hagana declared that "failure of the British to evacuate these foreign troops will be considered a British provocation against the Jewish defense forces."

Lolly, British Heroine

British Housewives Have Major Role in Second Battle of Britain

This is the story of Lolly, a typical English housewife and mother in the Cockney section of London. How this working class family is making out against drastic shortages in food, clothing and fuel is told by Inez Robo, star feature writer for International News Service who has just returned from England. Following is the first in a series of five articles.

BY INEZ ROBO
NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—Lolly Segrott is one of the great, unsung heroines of the second battle of Britain.

No one is ever going to hang any medals on Lolly or her kind. She will never be mentioned in dispatches or summoned to Buckingham Palace for commendation. But when this second great battle of Britain is won, as it most surely will be soon, it will be the Lollies of Britain who were the architects of a victory.

Never have so many Lollies worked with so little to feed and clothe such a multitude. How they do it is a miracle of grit, ingenuity and endless queuing up. Lolly Segrott, now in her mid-forties, is a working housewife in Bermondsey, the most badly blitzed and one of the poorest sections of London. Short and plump, Lolly is pretty, her hair curling naturally about her cheerful face.

Both she and her husband Alfred, were born within the sound of cow bells, which makes them of the enduring Cockney breed. They have brought five children into the world, and despite poverty and war have instilled in them kindness and gentle manners.

In September, 1939, Alfred Segrott was a house-painter, earning around $20 a week. But almost overnight, a house-painter in Berlin changed all that. Alfred dropped his paint brush to enlist in the air raid precautions organization in Bermondsey.

In no time at all, his superior officer and all, had a genius for organization. He was soon chief of the whole ARP setup in the Bermondsey district.

It was in those days, poking about in the blitzed areas of Bermondsey, that I became acquainted with the Segrotts.

We have been firm friends ever since. Much that I know about the brave and enduring qualities of Britain, I have learned from this family, so poor in the world's goods and so rich in heart and spirit.

It was Alfred and his counterparts in every class who fought the first battle of Britain so bravely.

Battle Forces Changed

No. 1 in the second great battle of Britain, the struggle has slipped on to the shoulders of Lolly and her sister housewives in every grade of English society.

It is the housewife who feeds and clothes her family and makes do out of nothing. It is the Lollies who pass along their own slim rations to husbands and children to supplement their slender lot of 2,700 calories—a thousand less than the average man gets in America.

When the ultimate blow, potato rationing, was announced last month, English newspapers cried out in alarm. They pointed out that this meant another drastic cut in the diet of the housewife, already the most undated group in England, as she would inevitably pass along her share to her family.

Lolly today carries on two full-time jobs simultaneously. She keeps a neat house and feeds and clothes her family. And she works five days a week in a printing shop.

Like many working class families in America, similar families in England find that one pay check will not support the family adequately.

All Must Help

Alfred earns about $25 a week now, is Bermondsey's bomb damage appraisal expert. This is a good wage for a British working man.

But the few pounds Lolly brings home each week and the mile contributed by Joanne, the 16-year-old daughter who is a telephone switchboard operator still do not leave much surplus when the week's bills are paid (Joanne earns $8.50 per week).

The Segrotts estimated that since I last visited them the cost of living has risen fully 100 per cent for them.

The difficulties of living have risen even more, even with no bombs falling.

Lolly was ill and hospitalized for many weeks last summer. Her fellow employees in the printing shop where she works took up a collection and sent her money.

It never occurred to Lolly to spend it on a big jacket—one does not need pretty bed jackets in Bermondsey—or even a new dress.

To Lolly the money was a God-send. When she got out of the hospital she walked around to the coal merchant bought the family's winter supply of fuel.

(Tomorrow—A lesson in how to end waste in cooking (the way Lolly uses every scrap).)

LEGION DISTRICT WINS $100 PRIZE

This Area Takes First Place in Membership Contest.

An award of $100 was recently by the Sixth District American Legion, in which Marion county is located, as a result of membership contest conducted by the Department of Ohio Legion. This was the second award made by the state department, the previous one of $100 being awarded to the Second district as an Armistice day award on Nov. 11. As a result, the Sixth district is second highest in Ohio in membership.

D. J. MacDonald of Marion district vice commander, received word of the award Friday. Tom Campbell of Mt. Gilead is district commander.

The awards at each time were made to the district having the largest percentage of its 1933 membership paid up by the date designated, the first award date being Nov. 11 and the latter being Dec. 7, Pearl Harbor day. The percentage was based on the membership percentage of 1937.

Following the first deadline winner the Second district, was dropped from the contest and could not participate for the second and $100 award. The awards were made by the department headquarters in Columbus and the money is taken from headquarters funds. The Sixth district is to have a district conference in January in Delaware.

The Sixth district now has 2178 members which is a percentage of 55.21. The Second district is the highest in Ohio, with the first award with 59.609 per cent.

The 14 districts in Ohio are now working toward another $100 membership award which will be given at the state convention to be held Aug. 6-7-8 in Columbus. It is contest is open to all Ohio districts and will begin Sept. 6, last year.

Keeping Funeral Costs Out of Inflation . . .

One of the things that always is a foremost consideration at the Hughes Funeral Home is to keep costs down to a level every family can afford.

In these days that is no easy task. Items used in funeral service have been caught in the same price spiral that affects everything else. It is only by careful, personal management that we have been able to keep our own prices on a fairly even keel.

The management of Hughes Funeral Service invites your investigation of our ability to serve at fair prices—even in today's market.

Prevention of Tooth Decay

The discouraging fact that tooth decay when it is just beginning is becoming more and more a problem for the average person today is more and more a problem for the average person today. But all this is possible only when he is consulted early enough. That is why I stress the need of cooperation on the part of the patient. Only by going to the dentist for frequent check-ups can he make sure that decay will be discovered at the beginning.

Some people seem to have special susceptibility to tooth decay, while in others the teeth are more resistant. Just why this difference exists has not been definitely determined. It is thought that perhaps it is a matter of heredity or the type of diet which the mother uses during pregnancy.

More effect is constantly being put on preventive measures and some progress has been made. One method which is being widely employed is to put an element known as fluoride into the drinking water.

PONTIAC

A fine car made finer

A Product of General Motors

Always good - always a great value

Pontiac's first rule of manufacturing is that every Pontiac car must be a good car. It must be soundly designed and quality built to serve long and dependably.

But it must also represent an outstanding value. The price must always be reasonable for so fine a car.

The Pontiac organization strives constantly for improvement in both these directions—to achieve a finer quality and even greater value. More and more owners are finding out what this means in terms of a better car and a sounder investment. As a result, Pontiac's reputation is the greatest in history—and is growing every day.

Better make your own next car a Pontiac—the car that is always good—and always an outstanding value!

DUE TO OUR UNFILLED ORDERS ON HAND, you may experience some delay in getting a new Pontiac. Place your order now to avoid further delay. In the meantime, let us keep your present car operating at top efficiency.

One Man's Opinion

By WALTER KIERNAN

The National Public Health Association has just issued its report on the results of the water fluoridation program in the United States. The report states that the results have been so good that many dentists have urged that all of the water in the United States be fluoridated. On the other hand, some dentists may yet be required to determine just what amount of fluoride is safe in drinking water.

Another method of employing fluoridation for the dentist is to apply a solution of sodium fluoride directly to the teeth. This method has also been thoroughly tested and would seem to reduce decay about 40 per cent.

Other methods of using the fluoride such as putting it into toothpaste or taking fluoride tablets, have not yet been tested enough to determine their value and dangers.

Still another method of preventing tooth decay, which has received some attention, is the application to the teeth of a solution of zinc chloride and potassium ferriocyanide. It is claimed that this treatment may be even better than the use of sodium fluoride. These substances, it is believed, may block up the little cracks in the teeth, thus keeping the germs from getting in and starting the decay process.

Questions and Answers

Question: I have white patches all over my body, especially on the arms. What is the cause and treatment?

Answer: The white patches on your body are called leiodermis. The exact cause of this condition is not known nor up to the present time do we know of any method of treatment for it which will get rid of the spots.

155 Kresge Employees Get Christmas Bonus

One hundred and fifty-five regular and part-time employees of the two Kresge Co. stores located at 143 and 146 West Center-street will share in the distribution of a Christmas bonus, it was announced today.

Under the enlarged Christmas remembrance plan this year, cash bonuses for part time and Saturday employees have been increased. Length of service in the company determines the individual amounts of the gifts.

Richard Douthett, manager of the new Kresge store, said that paying a bonus each year has been the custom for more than 26 years. In the 697 Kresge stores in the United States and Canada, 40,000 employees benefit. Leonard McNail is manager for the northside Kresge store.

Roving Reports

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP)—"purpose" — to pay off social debts en masse, to launch a better mousetrap or to sell a celebrity that nobody ever heard of before except his mother and his publisher.

They are supposed to have a time limit, but the only ones who take it seriously are the host and/or the hostess. I like to go early and stay late, for the same reason that I hate to leave in the middle of a movie.

WHEN YOU ARRIVE the place is always fresh and magnificently neat. And when you leave it looks as if it had been kicked apart by a muscled horse.

Through the years you get accustomed to certain familiar figures, and I feel cheated now at a cocktail party unless these show up:

(1) The dour thin man who wanders around all evening with a glass of ginger ale muttering methodically: "Ulcers. My doctor says I can't drink a drop of Ulcers."

(2) The amateur juggler who wants to prove he can keep three oranges in the air, and ends up by smashing a window or hitting the guest of honor in the eye.

(3) The middle-aged lady who sheds her shoes and inhibitions and rehearses old love affairs with windy regret.

(4) The drunk who spills his drink on the sofa while explaining how he burnt a hole in the rug with his cigar.

(5) The aging wolf who wasn't satisfied with grandma and tries to paw all the pretty young Red Riding Hoods.

SOME PEOPLE complain the talk at cocktail parties never makes sense. But where can you hear such fabulous nonsense? It is conversation jet-propelled, and anybody who doesn't start each sentence with "I" is suspected of being an exhibitionist.

There is glamor, glamor everywhere, and the nice part about it is that it comes apart at the seams by the middle of the evening like a wedding cake left in the rain.

A cocktail party is just the adult's harmless way of trying to recapture childhood's lost land of make-believe. Nothing said at one is ever taken seriously—that's part of the game—and when it's time to go all the marvelous people who ordinarily wouldn't give each other the time even if clocks were free, say: "Now you call me tomorrow."

And they add under their breath: "If I thought you really would, I'd have the telephone taken out tonight."

Everybody goes home consoled by the knowledge they won't have to see each other again—until the next cocktail party.

EXPECT VOLUNTARY STEEL ALLOCATION

No Government Control Likely, Trade Magazine Says.

By The Associated Press
CLEVELAND, Dec. 15.—Indications are that Congress will not grant the administration broad allocation authority over steel distribution, the magazine Steel reported today.

The trade publication noted, however, that some form of voluntary allocation is expected to come out of present discussions in Washington.

"Meanwhile, with the administration pressing for at least limited controls, the steel producers are increasing efforts to become current with their commitments," the magazine said. "Attainment of balance would permit prompt and effective handling on a voluntary basis of emergency requirements regarded essential by governmental authorities."

Reporting on a special survey which it conducted, Steel said the pig iron shortage is so serious that less than 25 per cent of the nation's foundries now are receiving adequate tonnage.

"The unemployment already being caused by this situation is becoming a serious problem, and increasing layoffs are predicted for the future," the journal added.

"The shortage of iron is creating a shortage of castings, causing a chain reaction in a large number of manufacturing plants which use castings in the make-up of their products."

A new peacetime peak of 1,710,000 tons was reached in steel production last week, the highest figure since the week ended May 19, 1945. Production was scheduled at fractionally over 97.5 per cent.

Nearly 5,000,000 people live in the comparatively tiny Ruhr area of Germany.

RAPS SUGAR COST. Testifying before the Senate Appropriations Committee in Washington, Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.) is shown (above) as he charged the Army was guilty of "direct violation of the law" in buying one billion pounds of sugar at $10,000,000 above market level. A special assistant to Army Secretary Kenneth Royall, Tracy Voorhees, told the Senators that no cheaper sugar, which is to be used in occupied areas, was available when the purchase was made.

BURNED-OUT POTTERY TO BE BACK SOON

By The Associated Press
SCIO, O., Dec. 15.—Louis Reese says by the first of the year they'll be making white dishes again at the fire-ravaged Scio-Ohio Pottery Co., probably at 50 per cent of capacity.

And to have Reese say that makes Christmas season brighter for some 1,300 residents of this Harrison county town where the pottery factory is the lone industry.

Reese sketched future plans for restoring the plant which was hit by a fire that caused an uninsured loss of about $2,000,000 last Thursday.

About 1,200 persons in a mass meeting at the high school gym Saturday night listened, attentive and applauding, to the man who came here in 1932 to build an abandoned and dilapidated pottery factory into a $3,000,000 business.

But before the pottery owner started dealing with things to come he paid a $72,881 pay roll due that day.

Then he told employees not yet assigned to salvage work to take other work, but to be ready soon to return to jobs he guaranteed to provide.

Most of the audience brought money and bank books in anticipation of an appeal for funds, but Reese said he had funds enough for the reconstruction.

The fire, Reese added, prevented him from distributing a bonus at this year's Christmas party. (He attracted national attention last December by giving out $205,288 to about 800 employees, and reports were that about $400,000 was to have been given out this year.)

Before his audience left, he continued, they would receive the favors he had intended to give at the Christmas party—leather purses and key-chains for the women, and leather wallets for the men.

"We Disaffiliate"

LIKE a baseball player who is hard to pitch to, John L. Lewis frequently takes a walk. Or to put the matter in another baseball simile, he is like the man who picks up his glove and goes home when the game isn't played his way.

Lewis' United Mine Workers have been affiliated twice with the AFL and once with the CIO, in addition to periods of "disaffiliation." Now the union has returned to its status of isolation because of Lewis' policy on the Taft-Hartley act. While other union leaders lay plans to nullify it in the courts or at the ballot box, Lewis proceeds on the theory that if it is ignored it will go away. By refusing to sign the non-Communist affidavit, he has cut the UMW off from recourse to the NLRB. He has wrangled with the top commands of both of the AFL and the CIO and has walked away rebuffed.

Lewis never has been a team player. He gives the back of his hand to all who disagree with him. He never has conceded an important error in his life and probably never will. If all union leaders were like him there would be no federations of unions. If all men were like him there would be no unions.

White Man's Burden, '47 Model

INDICATIVE of the way the world was before the appearance of a West African tribesman before the United Nations trusteeship council to make a plea for his people. His name is Sylvanus E. Olympio. He wore a conservative blue suit. He donned horn-rimmed glasses to read his speech which he carried in a briefcase. He spoke English and French fluently.

The basis of his plea was that his people, known as the Ewes, be brought under a common flag. At present the 1,000,000 Ewe tribesmen are divided between British and French territories and are brought up behind trade barriers under different ways of life. He doesn't ask independence for the Ewes, but simply that they no longer be treated as chattels.

Among the millions of this earth whom civilization has lightly touched, there are squalor, disease and misgovernment. There also is a growing awareness of the fundamental rights vouchsafed free men. Kipling died only 11 years ago, but sometimes it seems like 111.

Consider the Source

INSTEAD of gingerly skirting the subject of slavery, the Russians have brought it up at the Geneva conference of the UN commission on human rights. Of course, the United States is charged with "condoning slavery."

Eleanor Roosevelt, leader of the United States delegation, has drafted a definition of what the western world means by freedom. It means freedom of conscience, religion and belief; it means liberty to emigrate and seek asylum from persecution; it means no one shall be held in involuntary servitude or subjected to arbitrary arrest or detention. Mrs. Roosevelt concedes not all groups in the United States have all the civil rights to which they are entitled, but progress is being made—and has been made since Lincoln's day.

Russia qualifies on no count under that definition. It maintains a huge army of "political" or "unreliable" for manual labor. It holds thousands of war prisoners, with no date set for their release. No Russian enjoys freedom to emigrate or express an opinion unless it is favorable to the state.

The Russians' familiar tactic of raising a clamor to cover their own deficiencies has lost much of its impact. In evaluating Russian statements, claims and accusations, the western world knows it must consider the source.

Anyone See a Billion?

THE treasury department is trying to find out what veterans did with that billion dollars they received for terminal leave bonds. Government economists supposed such a sum would make a big splash in the nation's economic pool, but it sank with scarcely a ripple. Retail sales were up slightly, but only in line with the continuing pattern since January.

A spot check of individuals instead of charts would show where that billion went. It paid back rent, hospital bills, payments on houses, and maybe a few stray dollars here and there found their way into bank accounts.

High School a Necessity

THE National child labor committee reports that employed young people between 14 and 17 totaled 1,970,000 in April, compared with 830,000 in April, 1940. This is a substantial drop from the record 3,000,000 at work in April, 1945, but it indicates the average will remain well above the 1940 figure. In view of the huge college enrollment these days, the figure is anomalous and disturbing.

Now more than ever before a high school education is essential for a satisfactory life. The acquisition of skills and the enjoyment of leisure are dependent upon adequate education—and no less than a high school education can possibly meet today's requirements.

In 1946, the death rate in France was the lowest in the history of the country.

In the 13th Century, Venice was the business center of the world.

Scanning the Record

By George E. Sokolsky

Where's the Crisis?

THE Truman administration has accepted the Henry Wallace formula that a crisis is inevitable and that therefore the United States must talk its way into one. Wallace started that line of conversation almost immediately after the war, actually specifying the time and nature of the crisis. On Nov. 29, 1945, Henry Wallace predicted 7,000,000 unemployed in 1946. This did not occur then and it has not occurred yet. Many New Deal economists have been predicting a crisis as inevitable since Wallace started that gag, and the Communists have a "boom or bust" line which they use in all their propaganda against the United States throughout the world. But the crisis does not come.

The Steel Situation

As a matter of fact, the Luckman dramatization, which has failed so miserably, was the first signal that the Truman administration had adopted as its political measure the Wallace concept of the inevitable crisis. The directing genius of the Luckman effort was Abe Fortas, who is one of the extremely smart young men of the New Deal. Fortas was graduated from Yale Law school in 1932, joined the legal division of the AAA that same year and remained in one job or another of the government until Truman took over. He reappeared in what is euphemistically called a citizens committee—that is, the Luckman dramatization—as counsel.

Evidence Lacking
The whole point of Luckman activity was that a crisis had come.

A Chance To Get Rid of the Ties That Bind

The mayor of Grand Rapids has launched a nationwide Neckties for Europe Collection Campaign.

And just in time for the after-Christmas rush.

Is that for European or brother-in-law relief?

The mayor doubtless means well, but I can think of a lot of ways to demonstrate our regard for Europe besides lending a lot of cast-off neckties. In fact, some of the numbers which would be contributed might well be construed as aggression.

What manner of people would we be who, when asked for bread, responded with a force-in-hand?

Nope, I think we had better continue disposing of our neckties in the traditional way, by giving them to the yard-man. At least, it doesn't create an international incident when he breaks off diplomatic relations.

to American agriculture resulting in a grain shortage. His one success was to shut down American distilleries so that European and Canadian distilleries could export more liquor to the United States. But no evidence produced by his committee or by Secretary of Agriculture Anderson proves that there is a grain shortage in the United States. True, there is an apparent grain dislocation in the world, but that dislocation does not involve the United States in a crisis unless this country attempts to feed the world. As that cannot be done under any circumstances, any program to do it would lead to a crisis. In a word, there is no agricultural crisis, but the government can make one.

Meanwhile, subsidies for agricultural and other products have risen until they will amount to $15,200,000,000 by June 30, 1948, for the period beginning in 1931. This fiscal year such subsidies will amount to $1,100,000,000 for farmers alone.

True, the purchasing power of the American dollar is down and there is an excess of money in circulation. It was Harry Truman, again basing himself on Wallace statistics and conclusions—confusion, if you prefer—who started the inflation by proposing increased wages on the assumption that wages could be raised while prices would remain stationary. This was in 1945. Of course, this did not happen. Wages went up, prices went up. There have been two major wage increases and they were accompanied by price increases. Meanwhile, money in circulation increased from about $5,000,000,000 in 1933 to $28,000,000,000 in 1947. The total bank deposits and currency outside banks rose from about $42,000,000,000 in 1933 to about $170,000,000,000 in 1947. The money supply increased about $3,000,000,000 between May and September.

Government Responsible
During all those years the government was in control of the economy of the country and possessed ample legal measures to curtail the volume of circulation of currency. If we face a money crisis, it is of the government's making. Actually, there is no crisis in sight, except that politicians seem to want to create the impression that there is one around the corner whatever the advantage they can get out of fear.

Cold War Goes Bad for Soviets

By Walter Lippmann

LATE last week the house received a report from its committee on foreign affairs which said "the Communists hope of early victory in western Europe through legal democratic politics is dead for years to come," and that unless the Communists can succeed in "a violent strike for power in France and Italy, then for the time being the limits of Communist expansion after World War II have been set for the Western World."

The events in France have confirmed this conclusion, and while there is still uncertainty about Italy, the indications are that it will also be confirmed there.

The question then is whether "a violent strike for power" which has not yet been attempted—could succeed if it were attempted.

The answer is, I believe, that Lippmann, the local Communists can not seize power against the majority of the people unless the national forces—the police and the army—have first been disposed of.

They must either have subverted the police and the army, which obviously they have not done in France and probably not in Italy either, or they must have the support of foreign troops to crush the national resistance.

That is to say, the Red army can not cross Germany and enter France, the local Communists can not seize power by violence, and may not, since they know what the result would be: attempt such a suicidal adventure.

And if Tito's army can not enter northern Italy, a swift and successful seizure of power is in the highest degree improbable. Barring his open intervention, the worst that is to be feared in Italy is civil strife of a guerilla kind supported by infiltration and the smuggling of contraband from Yugoslavia.

But this would be met, of course, by energetic support of the Italian government in the form not only of release from the disarmament clauses of the peace treaty, and the supply of arms, but also by direct diplomatic action, backed by Allied power, in Belgrade and in Moscow.

Russia Loses

If the estimate of the house committee on foreign affairs is correct, then Russia has lost the cold war in western Europe.

That is to say, it can not dominate western Europe by waging the cold war.

To dominate western Europe it must invade western Europe, and must fight not a cold war but a real war.

That is where we come into the picture. Why is it that the Red army can not cross Germany and invade France in order to support the French Communists?

Not because Gen. Clay's four divisions can stop the Red army. Not because we could land enough troops in France quickly enough to stop the Red army at the French frontiers.

But because the Kremlin knows that if it overwhelmed our troops in Germany and invaded France, which it could almost certainly do, our reply would be the kind of war which we waged against Japan after it overwhelmed Bataan and overran a large part of China and of south-east Asia.

We should no more seek a decision in France, in Germany, in Trieste, in Greece than we sought a decision in China or the Netherlands Indies. We should seek it in Moscow. In the heart which is vulnerable to our particular kind of military power, whereas the heart of America is at present, and will be for the duration of this diplomatic struggle, invulnerable.

These are the strategic conditions which enable us, as long as we maintain our power and manage it wisely, to say with confidence that Russian Communism can extend no further, and that eventually it will have to recede.

Conform To Position

But our diplomacy must conform to our strategic position. For if it does not, we shall get into trouble.

An example of how by misunderstanding our position we could get into trouble was provided last week by Representative John Lodge of Connecticut. Lodge implored the President to disregard the Italian peace treaty for the purpose of protecting Italy against the Russians and the Yugoslavs.

Though Lodge's intentions are no doubt of the best, his practical advice is not. For our handful of troops in Italy do not protect Italy. What protects Italy is the total power of the United States and its allies.

To have kept the troops there in violation of the treaty would not have strengthened the Italian government but would, on the contrary, have weakened it. It

TEN YEARS AGO
It was Wednesday, Dec. 15, 1937. The state legislature turned its attention to enactment of a "permanent" relief program and the supplemental budget, after approving stop-gap measures providing $4,000,000 to $5,000,000 for immediate financing.

Forty women attended a buffet dinner party held by the Elks Women's club in the lodge hall. Arrangements were in charge of a committee composed of Mrs. M. H. Gunder, Mrs. E. H. Gunder and Mrs. Walter Hughes and the social chairman, Mrs. M. D. Porter. Awards in cards were won by Mrs. Henry Stauffer, Mrs. Paul Saltz and Harold Schultz.

The Co. D, 166th Infantry basketball squad annexed its fifth consecutive victory by handing Marion Merchants a 30 to 18 wallop on the Steam Shovel court. Ferrin, forward, took the top spot on Co. D's high scoring activity, registering four field goals and two throws for a 10-point total. The Co. D team included Ferrin, R. Greene, G. Greene, Self, F. Greene and Hart, while the Merchants' lineup included Reid, Owens, Tierny, Tuttle, McAninch and Crenshaw.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Douce, who had been married only recently, were given a miscellaneous shower at the home of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Douce of northeast of Claridon.

Dr. Frederick C. Smith was sworn into office for his second term as mayor of Marion by Common Pleas Judge Hector S. Young. Baliff Joseph M. Justice was the only other person present.

Twenty Years Ago

It was Thursday, Dec. 15, 1927. Announcement was made that the bodies of President and Mrs. Warren G. Harding would be interred in their final resting place at the memorial tomb on Wednesday, Dec. 21. The bodies had been in the vault at the Marion cemetery.

Fire of undetermined cause starting in the boiler room destroyed the auxiliary power station and car barns of the C. D. & M. Electric Co. at Stratford, resulting in a loss estimated at $500,000.

An O. W. U. economics expert estimated that a good Christmas dinner with turkey for a family of five would cost about $2.50.

B. R. Prechard was elected chairman of the Marion county chapter of the Red Cross.

G. Fare Larie was elected president of the Kiwanis club to succeed Dr. E. A. Stengel, who served throughout 1927.

Mrs. Lillian Welch of Nevada was a visitor at the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Date Miller of South Prospect street.

Members of the Jolly Ten club and their husbands and families held a Christmas party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Finley of Oak Grove avenue.

The Strategic Partnership

By Joseph Alsop

LONDON, Dec. 15.—In tracing the development of the Anglo-American relationship since the end of the war, the role of Lieutenant General Curtis E. LeMay is not the least interesting problem to consider. The tough, hard-faced young general, who brandishes a cigar like a club, now has his headquarters in the small German city of Wiesbaden. From Wiesbaden, although Britain in 1947 is certainly no holiday resort, he makes fairly frequent trips to London.

Here is a mystery, which must afflict the chiefs of the Soviet intelligence services like a throbbing tooth, and should interest any one who wishes to understand British or American policy.

General LeMay, after all, is probably the greatest younger fighting leader who emerged in the second World War. He contributed vitally to the tactics of our heavy bombardment of Germany. He led the crushing grand assault against Japan. He commanded the 20th Air Force when the bombs were dropped on Hiroshima and Nagasaki. And now he has been plucked from the key post of director of air research and set down at Wiesbaden in command of the pitifully small American air forces in Germany, succeeding an officer of lesser rank.

Why has this extraordinary thing been done?

It does not take a very powerful mind to guess the answer. General LeMay is engaged in on-the-spot tactical and strategic planning, of the if, as and when kind that may never bear fruit, but is none the less essential to preparedness. As his trips to London clearly indicate, he is working fairly closely with the British air staff and, one suspects, with the imperial general staff as a whole.

Sort of a Check
At the same time, despite the smallness of the forces under LeMay's command, his mere presence in Germany is no doubt also intended to serve as a mild deterrent to Soviet military planners with an inclination to be too venturesome.

There is nothing official about the foregoing speculations, and the conclusions are likely to be vigorously denied. Yet the betting is approximately 9 to 1 that these conclusions are correct. Furthermore, they are entirely in accord with the other known facts about the military-strategic aspect of the Anglo-American relationship. As to this, there is no need to speculate. It can be stated on the highest possible authority that the wartime frankness and intimacy, the close wartime partnership, between British and American strategists and planners has now been revived in these times of peace that is not peace.

Behind this state of affairs, there is a curious and important history. Not very long after V-J day when the British were prime targets of the Soviet's political and propagandistic drive, London formally proposed placing the Anglo-American combined chiefs of staff—the formal link in the Anglo-American strategic partnership—on a permanent peace-time basis. It was an old idea of Winston Churchill's, which he had both sold to the cabinet and discussed in public. The Truman administration, then bemused by the great phony "back to normalcy" campaign in the United States, reacted to London's overture like a nervous sea anemone being poked with a sharp stick.

Target Shifted
Officially, the combined chiefs were then only kept in being because certain areas of combined military interest, such as Italy, were still garrisoned by considerable Anglo-American forces. After about a year, however, these forces were reduced materially; the target of the main Soviet attack shifted to the United States; and the British government became alarmed by its own left wing's constant agitation. London, in turn, now indicated to Washington that since there was no desire to maintain the combined chiefs on a permanent basis, the agency might as well be liquidated at once. In the interval, fortunately, the administration in Washington learned about a few of the hard facts of the post-war world. Washington was horrified by London's new proposal. Where the pleading had emanated from London the year previous, it was now from the other end of the cable wire that the pleading came.

Washington's pleas were successful. The combined chiefs again survived this new danger in their rather Perils of Pauline-like peace-time history. They are now, unofficially but in fact, on almost the kind of permanent basis which Churchill envisioned. As is suggested by the presence of General LeMay at Wiesbaden, the combined chiefs by no means carry the whole burden of Anglo-American strategic liaison. There has also been a good deal of what one might call military leader oddity, on the side, described in this correspondent as "healthy hanky-panky" through other channels.

But the pattern of the Anglo-American partnership is far less important than the fact of the partnership's existence. What matters is that in the field of strategy, Britain and the United States are collaborating with the closest intimacy.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

The Broadway First Night Reclamation

New York theater producers are dividing the first nighters into a "pro" and "semi-pro" classification. And cutting some of the "pros" from the first-night audiences on the ground they create a harbored, deadpan and "show me" mood that makes the showhouse less a theatre than a deep freeze unit.

A "pro" is a fellow who has seen so much he can think of little that will please him. He is in the view of the producers, a sufferer from hardening of the good will. He brings his head-ache with him and would regard checking it at the gate as an imposition.

He comes to the best, hoping for the worst. His guiding thought is contained in the classic line: "Even if it was good I wouldn't like it."

A "semi-pro" is a "pro" who has had less experience being openly bored. He can applaud without losing face. He doesn't mind smiling, even if caught at it by friends.

Then there is the amateur. The amateur is a regular patron who pays for his entertainment, and, if stuck with it, can squawk only to his intimates. He is used to gambling. If he loses he can't say "You can't do this to me" in any newspaper. He knows he has no defensive weapon.

He regards theatergoing as part lack, part adventure, part entertainment and part machine. And he can always console himself with the thought it would have been worse staying at home.

He likes the pre-theater dinner, the taxi ride, the struggle for tickets and the parade down the wrong aisle. He even reads the program and never works up a belief that the producer and author are taking advantage of him. He doesn't worry all through the first intermission for fear the last two acts will be so good they will kill the wisecrack he thought up to describe the slow first act.

But we think, despite all this, that the Broadway showmen are displaying thin skins, unequalled pettiness and unprecedented disregard for good public relations work in taking a poke at the "pros." The producers have suffered enough in the last decade by a brand of press agency which would have made old-time showmen turn over in their mummy-cases.

A new type of press agent, the boy who recognizes nobody he hasn't seen in the night clubs, builds up himself instead of his employer and promotes the idea that a producer is a miser in spades and a Scrooge in "Annie Oakleys."

Can you imagine the producer of yesterday cutting down first-night tickets grading newspaper men or showing any discrimination whatever? His publicity staff would have killed the idea in the egg.

The Real News Newsreel

We thought it hard to keep Jimmy Durante from being funny at a way he has been found by the authors of "This Time for Keeps." Monday night's Fulton J. Sheen is author of a book for children "Jesus, Son of Mary." Rafaela Busoni illustrates. The Christmas Seal campaign should be helped by the publication of statistics showing the White Plague still kills 55,000 Americans a year. Odis Chatfield Taylor says you can't change Truman nature. Definition for W. W.—A Communist is a man who will take a drink out for giving the best definition of a Communist, and then denounces him. "The Candid Mike" is one of the funniest air programs a recent dialogue with a crooked wrestler being a howl. Robert Ruark has a vest-splitting book in "Grenadine Etching." We have an idea for a skit in which Molotov keeping the other Big Four members in a state of suspense by staying in an anteroom for three hours, is revealed to be blowing bubble gum.

TRUE TO FORM

The I.C.C., the I.C.C.—It bleeds for the railroads but never for me.

Senator Taft predicts meat rationing by spring, but favors it on the British system limiting meat to 10 cents a pound, worth a week instead of specifying points. By springtime one should be able to pick up a nice little ounce of hamburger for a couple of dollars.

Palestine Landmarks

In the partitioning of Palestine voted by the United Nations, where do the Bible shrines and landmarks fall?

Galilee and Phoenicia in the north, Samaria and Judea in the center, and Philistia and Edom in the south were the large divisions of the Holy Land 2,000 years ago, says the National Geographic Society. Current partition plans bear little relation to these ancient areas.

The projected international zone in the hills of Judea includes Jerusalem, city of 157,000 people, and a surrounding area reaching eastward to the Mount of Olives and south to Bethlehem. The town of Christ's birth is now an Arab community of 9,000.

Within this trusted zone are many shrines of three great religions. Among the most sacred are the Walling Wall of the Jews, the Moslem Mosque of Omar and the Church of the Holy Sepulchre of the Christians.

Calvary, Solomon's Temple, Mt. Zion, Gethsemane, Bethany, Job's Well, the Valleys of Hinnon and Jehoshaphat, the Pools of Bethesda and Siloam have their sites in the zone, some outside and some within modern Jerusalem.

The Holy Land of the Old Testament ranges "from Dan even to Beersheba." The site of Dan close to the source of the Jordan River is in the northeasternmost tip of modern Palestine. Capernaum and Bethesda, on the shores of the Sea of Galilee, were also in this region of eastern Galilee, now assigned to the proposed Jewish state.

Beersheba today is an Arab town 45 miles southwest of Jerusalem. The center of the Edom district of Bible times, its position is far north in Palestine's big southern triangle of desert land. Most of this southern desert is apportioned to the Jewish state as a colonization area. It holds the Negebe, where shepherds watched their flocks and Gath of the Philistines.

Third sector of the Jewish state is the fertile coastal plain from south of Jaffa to north of Haifa. Under British mandate, Jewish immigrants have developed scores of communities in this Mediterranean region, including Tel Aviv, modern city of 140,000 Jews. Biblically, the sector consists of the Plain of Sharon, Mt. Carmel, and the Plain of Esdraelon, site of prophetic Armageddon. Jaffa itself is made an Arab enclave.

The northernmost sector assigned to the Arabs is fertile western Galilee and Phoenicia, contains Nazareth, which was Christ's home; Tiberias, and the site of Cana. The southern Arab watch borders the Mediterranean coast. Egypt, and contains Gaza, Ashkelon and Ashdod, homes of Philistine enemies. Herod was born at Ashkelon. Samson pulled the temple down at Gaza.

The largest Arab section surrounds the Jewish salient zone and covers most of the hill country of Samaria and Judaea. Tiberias, Shechem, Mt. Ephraim, Gibeon, Jericho, Hebron, Zebulun and the Wilderness of Judah are among its familiar Bible names. The Jordan River and Dead Sea form its eastern border.

1948 BUSINESS VIEW CLOUDED

Inflation Threat Makes Forecasts Difficult. Bank Reports.

By The United Press
CLEVELAND, O., Dec. 13 — Continued business expansion in 1947 dispelled dire predictions of some economists, but forecasts for the coming economic year are made even more difficult by the growing threat of inflation, the Cleveland Trust Co. monthly Business Bulletin said today.

Strong demand and a large purchasing power will carry business along at a brisk pace for the next several months, the bank report said, but "beyond that the picture is uncertain."

The monthly survey admitted that this country is "undergoing a pronounced inflation of commodity prices," but it is hoped that the nation could avoid "certain excesses which characterized past inflationary booms."

Danger Spots
Inflation danger spots were listed by the Bulletin as unwarranted increases in wages and prices, overexpansion of inventories, unwise credit extension, a speculative spree and an unbalanced national budget.

The bank survey said that "any appearance of such trouble spots in the future would mean less painful readjustments during the period of reaction which always follows an era of inflation."

The Bulletin failed to predict when and how the inflation threat was to be halted. The report said only that "all great price inflation are built and fed by the creation of an excess of money supply over goods and this one is no exception."

Dividend Outlook
The Cleveland Trust said stockholders' dividends for the year will reach a record high, but added that the amount of dividends lagged far behind wages and salaries paid by corporations, or the gross volume of business done by corporations as measured by their sales.

The Bulletin disclosed that dividend increases in 1947 over the 1935-39 annual average will probably be only about 65 per cent. "By continuing," it continued, "the gain in corporate sales for 1947 about 170 per cent over 1935-39, and the increase in wage and salary payments by corporations is approximately 214 per cent."

Stockholders will receive a little less than two cents on a dollar, the Trust company predicted, although during the 12 years from 1929 through 1940, they received in dividends 3.23 cents on each dollar of sales.

New Type Photography Lamps Reduce Heat

By The Associated Press
PITTSBURGH, Dec. 13 — Development of a new cadmium-mercury lamp designed to simplify studio heat was described today by Eugene W. Beggs, engineer of the Westinghouse Electric Corp.

In an address prepared for delivery before the Pittsburgh section of the Illuminating Engineering Society, Beggs said results attained with the lamp in initial Hollywood tests were "very promising."

Beggs said high intensity mercury vapor lamp developed by Westinghouse provided the most brilliant long-burning light known. However, initial tests showed its deficiency in red hues made it unsuitable for color movies.

This was overcome, he said, by adding a pinch of metallic cadmium to the mercury in the quartz inner bulb. He added that new lamps of higher wattages than the 1,000-watt type used in the studio tests now are being developed by Westinghouse.

BALDWIN, KING BREAKER, DIES

As Prime Minister He Forced Abdication of Edward in Wally Simpson Affair.

LONDON, Dec. 15.—Earl Stanley Baldwin, 80, the Briton who broke a king, died in his sleep during the night at his home in Stourport, Worcestershire, it was announced today.

As Stanley Baldwin he served his country three times as prime minister, but nothing in his long political career approached the decision he and another man forced upon Edward VIII now the Duke of Windsor, in December, 1936.

Baldwin and the late Cosmo Gordon Lang, Archbishop of Canterbury, told King Edward then that he had only this choice: abdication or renunciation of Wallis Warfield Simpson, Edward's second wife, and the king chose the latter.

Baldwin's death came 11 years after the abdication of King Edward. For two weeks before that event, Baldwin, a friend of Edward, had worked night and day behind the scenes.

Read Edward's Message

Then on Dec. 10, 1936, he stood before the house of commons. In his hand was Edward's message of abdication. On his tongue was a story that had gripped the world. It was on the verge of tears.

True to what he conceived to be his trust to the empire, Baldwin moved that the message of abdication be considered, saying: "No more grave message has ever been received by parliament and more difficult, and I might say, more repugnant task has ever been imposed on a prime minister."

When the "abdication crisis" was over Baldwin became Earl Baldwin of Bewdley. He handed over the office of prime minister to his chancellor of the exchequer, the late Neville Chamberlain. Then Baldwin retired to Sloupport, the place of his birth, to "raise pigs" and muse by the fire.

A Conservative in politics, a

STANLEY BALDWIN

successful ironmaster in business and a steadfast churchman, Baldwin often was described as the "most English of Englishmen."

Baldwin served as prime minister from May 25, 1923, to Jan. 22, 1924; from Nov. 4, 1924, to June 4, 1929, and from June 7, 1935, to May 28, 1937.

He was first elected to parliament in 1908. After he had served as prime minister he described the post as the "loneliest job in the world." He was leader of the Conservative party—a position now held by Winston Churchill—from 1923 to 1927.

DISTRICT ELKS HERE FOR 2-DAY SESSION

100 Visitors from North-Central Area Attend Meeting.

State officers and committee members of the North Central district of the Ohio Association of Elks for a two-day session here Saturday and Sunday. More than 100 out-of-town guests were entertained by Marion Lodge No. 22, B. P. O. Elks, for the two-day session. State committee meeting over the weekend and were the parade and quartet contest groups.

At a meeting of the parade committee it was decided to hold the parade, hereafter a feature of the state meeting at Central Point in the late summer, at the spring conference which will be held this year at Columbus, April 23, 24 and 25. Holding the parade at the spring conference, it is believed, will result in an increase in entries and also of interest to a greater number of people. Transportation problems resulting from the distance many marching clubs and bands face in reaching Cedar Point for the state convention will be overcome by holding the parade during the spring conference held in various cities, it is believed.

Here for the meeting were V. L. Derg of New Philadelphia, president, C. R. Maurer of Middletown and Joseph Kilgus of Bucyrus, vice presidents of the Ohio Elks association, Gerald C. Nau of Elyria, district deputy, and other state and district officers. Ralph Siddle of Wooster, president of the district, was in charge of the business sessions.

Social events included a dance Saturday night followed by a lunch and following the business session yesterday afternoon there was a dinner. Approximately 30 wives of the visitors and lodge members were entertained at cards and a social hour yesterday afternoon in the ladies' parlors, by members of the Elks Women's club. The group later joined the men for the dinner.

Retterer and Deputy Sheriff Edgar Fink. His face ashen in color, he took his seat between the chambers and mounted the bench. Summoned by the bailiff, the jury gave as death itself, filed into the courtroom and took their places in the jury box.

"You have reached a verdict," Judge Smith inquired.

"We have," Mr. West replied.

Clerk of Courts Calvin Oborn took the written form from the jury foreman and handed it to the bench. Scanning it at a glance, the judge, heightened the drama by withholding the verdict for several moments to compliment the state and the defense for Shappard on the manner in which the case was presented.

"It has been a fair trial," he said. "Both the state and the counsel for the defense have done all that could have been done to insure a fair and impartial trial."

He then handed the paper to the clerk of courts, Calvin Oborn, who quickly read the verdict.

Shappard, whose fate had hung in the balance, did not evince any change in countenance. Though pale, he neither smiled nor showed any reaction whatsoever to the verdict which spared him from the electric chair.

His wife, mother of two children, who had been at his side during the trial wept openly. Shappard turned to her and spoke a few words. An embrace was handicapped by manacles. As family friends took Mrs. Shappard, near collapse, to one side, the sheriff led her husband away to his cell.

With the drama over, the courtroom emptied quickly. Within moments, the benches which had been crowded for the five-day trial were empty and a half hour later the courthouse was once again in its customary Saturday afternoon appearance, silent and deserted.

Shappard, far from dejected, was singing this morning in his cell in the county jail. Upon return to his quarters, he almost proudly said, "Well, they gave it to me, didn't they?" Joking with the sheriff, the man who is about to enter the penitentiary under a life sentence, said "When I go down in the pen, how about starting in the morning? I want to get credit for that day."

Mt. Gilead Youth Hurt In Auto, Truck Crash

Charles McPeck, 19, of Mt. Gilead, suffered face bruises in a car-truck collision on route 95 about seven miles west of Marion at 10:10 a. m. today.

McPeck, driving west in an automobile, struck a truck driven by Jack Louthan, 18, of near Gallon, which was also going west and turning into a driveway, the state highway patrol reported.

Both the car and the truck were damaged, but neither Louthan nor his brother, Luther, 15, a passenger in the truck, were injured.

findings on segregation, particularly with reference to education in the south. They were Arthur H. Compton, chancellor of Washington university, St. Louis, Mo.; Goodrich White, president of Emory university, Atlanta; Douglas S. Freeman, editor of the Richmond, Va., News Leader, and Lewis W. Jones, president of the University of Arkansas, Fayetteville.

A statement indicating the basis for the dissent will appear, it was announced, in the second volume of the commission's report. Six volumes in all will be issued, under the general title "higher education for American democracy."

Comprehensive Program Urged

Today's report said that education for freedom, democracy, and world peace should become part of every phase of college life, including the school administration and outside activities, rather than be confined to a few courses of departments.

And as for the number of students, the commission said college attendance should be boosted to a minimum of 4,600,000 by 1960, compared with 2,340,000 this year.

All employees of The Star on the payroll as of Sept. 1 were today the recipient of one week's extra pay as a year-end bonus. Similar week's checks were distributed to seven other newspaper and two radio stations in the group comprising Brush-Moore Newspapers, Inc., including The Salem News, East Liverpool Review, Steubenville Herald-Star, Canton Repository, Portsmouth Times, Ironton Tribune, Salisbury (Md.) LAST TRIPLE KILLING FUGITIVE CAPTURED

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Dec. 15.—Surrender of James Morelli, 20-year-old convicted robber, brought to an end yesterday a 48-hour police search for two survivors of a trio suspected of a gang-type triple slaying last Friday.

Richard B. Austin, acting state's attorney, said he would ask the Cook County grand jury today to indict Morelli and Lowell Pentress, 21, on charges of murdering the three men in the shooting spree. Pentress already was in police custody. The third suspect, Thomas Daley, 36, an ex-convict, was shot and killed by police in Morelli's apartment Saturday morning.

Chief of Detectives Walter C. Storms said Morelli denied firing any of the fatal shots, that he accidentally discharged only one bullet which lodged in the wall of a garage where the shooting started. Storms said Morelli blamed Daley for all three killings and the wounding of two others.

Slain were John Kuess, 40, a second-hand furniture dealer,

LEWIS MAY START NEW LABOR DRIVE

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—Leaders of John L. Lewis' 11-year-old district 50, created to wage union organizing war in any direction were summoned into session today in Lewis' first move since "disaffiliation" with the AFL.

Whether the conference of regional directors and other lieutenants in the miscellaneous United Mine Workers affiliate meant that the UMW boss might strike out in a drive to start a third major labor movement remained to be seen.

A shift in the United Mine Workers high command became effective along with its march from the AFL camp. The executive board has designated Thomas Kennedy, 60, former Pennsylvania lieutenant governor and an experienced negotiator, as vice president. He succeeds the late John O'Leary of Pittsburgh.

Love's Perilous Path

By ADELE GARRISON

"WITH you in a minute," Katharine said when she answered my ring, and she was at the door at once.

"Any more talk-talk in the system?" she queried.

"Not a syllable," Mary said, "and, by the way, you mustn't have run away. You mustn't be of choice language—Uncle Dicky's finest, which Auntie Madge related to me. And she brought me wonderful news. I want you to know everything about this mess."

"I'll lap it up," Katharine told her, "but not from you. I'm going to herd you back to bed now. You needn't sleep if you don't like it—but lie down and relax. You must until luncheon time. You're going out for the first time this afternoon, you know."

"And am I ever going to love it?" Mary said ecstatically. "It's worth going back to bed. But be sure to have Auntie Madge bring you up-to-date on Olina's boy friend, and especially Uncle Dicky's program for him."

"I won't let her omit a syllable."

Katharine assured her. "And now, into your bedroom, pronto. Don't you dare go away, Madge. I'll be back as soon as I've put this child under a blanket."

"You couldn't drive me away," I told her, and burst myself with a magazine until she came back.

"She's almost asleep already," she said. "She must have been through an exciting session."

"She has," I told her, and then went over. Mary's revelation of the letters Georges had written her to the sanitarium, and of the plan Dicky had made for Georges to get his "come-uppance."

"Sometimes," she commented when I had finished, "I almost envy you that devil of a husband of yours. But remember I said 'almost'."

"You'd better," I threatened, laughing. "But, I'll admit, he is very refreshing when he elyzes one of his diabolical plans. Poor Georges! I don't envy him when Dicky gets through with him."

"Poor Georges!" she echoed.

"Poor Olina!" you mean?

Then she shook her fist at me. "Look here!" she said. "I'm warning you. If I see any divine pity oozing out of your carcass toward that colossal heel, I'll beat you up if I—"

"If you're able," you and another woman!" I told her placidly. "But don't worry. Georges has put himself beyond the pale."

But, even as I spoke, I remembered Dicky's prediction, and wondered quickly if there would be any possible exonerating explanation for the performance of the royal playboy. Everybody was so angry at Georges that I sensed a stirring of the sympathy—moulin, I told myself sathingly, that I generally feel for the mongrel that is being kicked by everybody in sight.

"That won't keep you from splitting a lance in his defense if the spirit so moves you," Katharine said shrewdly. "But a trace to Georges, coupled with a brace of malapropisms. I want you to do something for me."

"Anything," I told her warmly. "Yes, I'll bet you'd start washing windows, if you thought I needed to have them done." She gazed. "Have you remembered by any chance that you are going on a night here to the farm tonight, and the Lord He only knows how many hours of sleep you're going to lose?"

"It has crossed my mind," I told her, smiling.

"Have you anything to do, packing, or anything like that?"

"Not a thing," I said. "I'm going to take only an overnight bag, and it's always packed, as you know."

"Yes, I know," she said. "You should have been a nurse. But just now, you're going to obey one. March yourself over to my suite, undress, grab one of my nighties and climb into bed. I'll take care of both your child and your husband—she gave me an impish grin—"when they return. And I'll call you in plenty of time to dress for luncheon and your trip to the hospital. I'll even order your luncheon for you. Now scoot!"

Man Back in Jail Flew Coop Twice

Special to The Star

BUYRUS—James Kelley, 22, Gallon, is back in county jail, held on a charge of driving an automobile without the owner's consent as the result of his appropriation of Deputy Sheriff Clyde Richardson's car while he was being transported to county jail early in November.

Kelley and his companion, a juvenile girl, were taken into custody in the home of the former's mother in Gallon Thursday.

Kelley's jail record is an in-and-out proposition. While being driven to Bucyrus from Gallon with his companion by Sheriff Richardson he drove off with the sheriff's car when he and his companion were left in the car alone while a deputy served a summons at Sugar Grove. Taken into custody again in Lawrenceburg, Tenn. he was held only a short time when he escaped from the jail with six other prisoners.

An FBI detainer is held against him for questioning on other charges.

NEW SCRAP PAPER CANS ON STREETS

City Places Refuse Containers Out for Public Use.

Marionites won't be blasted in the face with a bombardment of paper scraps if they continue to make use of the wastepaper containers placed in the downtown section for an experiment, Edward O. Uncapher, safety-service director, said today.

The cans have been placed at the entrances of the National City bank at Main and Center streets, at the bus stop near the Midway restaurant and at the entrances of Callahan's drug store and Tullio's restaurant on South Main street.

Mr. Uncapher commented on the cooperation received from pedestrians to date and expressed the hope that they would continue to use the containers instead of discarding the papers along the street.

The refuse cans now in use have removable burlap bags which facilitate emptying. If the experimental containers continue to bring results, Mr. Uncapher said some additional 14 cans will be purchased and placed at intervals in the downtown district.

Mr. Uncapher explained that the experiment was being tried since street cleaners had difficulty in sweeping up the refuse because of the number of cars parked along the streets. The only time the crews can clean up the trash is early morning when the parking spaces are empty.

Harding Beats Delaware, 60-44, for 1st Cage Win

Gherman Nets 18 Points To Lead High Scoring Attack.

By STAN GAREY

Marion Harding won their first basketball game of the season by defeating Delaware, 60-44, when Dick Gherman netted 18 points for the Prexies at Edison gymnasium last Saturday night.

The Presidents took an early lead when Dick Riddle sank a foul shot and then a basket. Jim Rea followed with a long shot. Dick Diddle held up his scoring by making three baskets and two foul shots in the first quarter.

Riddle's shooting slumped a little in the last of the game when he was unable to find the basket.

Dick Gherman proved himself dead on any shot he tried when he racked up 18 points for high scoring honors. Jim Coss played a steady game and netted 14 points to equal Riddle's total.

The Prexies enjoyed an 11-point lead at the end of the first quarter, but Delaware closed up the gap a little to make the score at the half 27 to 21. Coss made the bulk of his points by foul shots, sinking eight of 13 free throws in the first and third quarters.

Delaware picked up only three points in the third quarter to the Presidents' 12, made up of Coss' five foul shots and Riddle's two baskets.

In the last frame Gherman racked up five buckets and one foul shot while Coss helped with two more fielders. Dick Riddle and Dick Gherman fouled out in the last hurried minutes of the game. As time was running out, Dave Coppel of Delaware made two fast baskets in a last desperate stand.

Three Willis players each netted nine points, and John Johnson, only veteran player on the team this year, fouled out during the third period.

Harding's reserves beat the Willis Reserves, 51-21. Dick Wolfe was high scorer for the Prexies with 11 points while Dallas McKean was high with five points for Willis.

Use of Harding Stadium Limited to School Games

Use of Harding stadium for football will be limited in the future to games of Harding High school, St. Mary High school, and junior high schools, the Athletic Board of Harding High school decided at a recent meeting.

The new policy was adopted by unanimous vote of the group because it was felt that too many games were played on the field to keep it in the proper shape.

The semi-professional Marion Angels football team used Harding stadium for home games this year.

BEE GEE CONTINUES BID FOR CAGE FAME

Make C.C.N.Y. 8th Victim Saturday; Bucks Win Too.

Bowling Green University's Falcons continue their bid for national basketball recognition tonight when they take on rugged Duquesne in Pittsburgh.

The Falcons, fresh from a Saturday night 72-68 triumph over City College of New York in Madison Square Garden, will shoot for their eighth win in many 1947-48 starts. They currently are averaging two points a minute.

Bowling Green's triumph over always tough C.C.N.Y. shared the weekend spotlight with Ohio State University's 83-70 defeat of Marquette at Milwaukee.

Center Neil Johnston and forwards Bob Donham and Dick Schmittner accounted for 42 points between them as Coach Tippy Dye's all-sophomore crew found the scoring range in its first away-from-home game and produced the Buck's first win.

Marquette came from behind to knot the score at halftime, 35-35, but couldn't withstand the Johnson's 29-point sniping, the 23 counters pitched in by Schmittner, and Donham's 17. Marquette's Gene Berge collected 32 for game scoring honors.

Bowling Green's towering pivotmen, six-foot, 10-inch Charles Share and six-six Don Otten, were too much for C.C.N.Y.'s eager Beavers, who lost four players on fouls trying to stop their backboard work. Otten, who scored 18 points, set a Garden record by connecting on 15 of 17 free throws. Harry Boykoff of St. John's, held the former mark.

Toledo, Oberlin, John Carroll, Wittenberg, Western Reserve and Wooster also came through with victories over non-Ohio rivals Saturday, but Findlay, Cedarville, Cincinnati and Griffin (Van Wert) lost to out-of-state teams.

Browns Win 2nd A.A.F.C. Title By Blasting N. Y. Yanks, 14-3

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR

Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—Cleveland's powerful Browns owned the championship of the All-America Football conference for another year today and it looked like they would continue to dominate the young professional circuit as long as Otto Graham and Marion Motley retain their health.

The Browns defended the title with bone-crushing authority yesterday by flattening the New York Yanks, 14-3, on the frozen, snow-lined turf of Yankee Stadium and as usual it was Graham's passing and Motley's running that gave the Browns the edge.

An overcasted throng of 61,879 watched the conference's western division titlists score in the first and third periods to spoil the bid of the Eastern champs to win the flag on the same ground where their baseball counterparts had captured the World Series only 10 weeks before.

It was even more decisive than a year ago, when the Browns won the inaugural playoff by subduing the same Yanks, 14-0, at Cleveland.

Motley Goes 52 Yards
A 52-yard run by the ponderous Motley, longest of the day, set up the first Cleveland touchdown scored on a sneak by Graham.

Yards out after he had flipped a short pass to Mac Speedie to eat up six of the last seven yards.

The Browns added the clincher in the third stanza after Tom Colville intercepted a pass thrown by Spec Sanders and ran it back 12 yards to the Yankee 41.

Motley picked up 16, Graham passed 11 to Special Delivery Jones and eight to Mickey Mayne as the Browns moved quickly to the 4. There Jones took the ball from Graham on a beautiful fake and went over standing up.

Sad Day for Sanders
It was a sad day for Sanders, who was hobbled by an ankle injury suffered in the final game of the regular season after leading the Yanks to the Eastern pennant.

The game was the first in 19 in which Sanders failed to score a touchdown or throw a touchdown pass.

The Yanks crossed the midfield stripe only three times all day, and their lone scoring opportunity came in the second period when Harvey Johnson booted a 12-yard field goal after a 62-yard march had bogged down six yards short of the end zone.

The 60,103 customers who paid their way into the park combined to gross receipts of $209,820.50, of which $140,130.21 was left after the deduction of taxes and game expenses. Of the $98,691.14 in the players' pool, the Browns divided $47,083.75 and the Yanks collected $31,389.17. The winning players each drew

EXAMPLES of notably apt wording on various sport subjects: Stanley Lowe, Marquette U. ticket director who is trying to satisfy the demand for the New Year's eve game with Wisconsin: "Now I know what it probably is like to be trapped in a pressure cooker."

Harold Keith, Oklahoma U. publicity: "The Big Six basketball race was as wide open as Joe E. Brown's mouth."

Red Smith, New York Herald-Tribune columnist, on Friday's bout between Ike Williams and Tony (The Clutch) Pelton: "Williams fought like a trout in a landing net."

M'MILLEN LOSES TO HOUSE OF DAVID

Bearded Comedians Play Cat and Mouse with Locals.

Proving they were as good as basketball as at comedy, the House of Davidagers beat the McMullen Feeds Mill quarter, 51-40, in the Armory Sunday.

The David's spark plug, veteran guard Bobby Rott, who performed ball-passing wizardry kept up a running fire of comment that kept a packed house laughing.

Pivot man "Long John" (seven foot three inch) Ludka tallied eight times on field goals and wasn't even trying his extra foot of neap advantage makes him nearly impregnable under the basket.

Frank Mekules and John Drey each netted six field goals for the Davids.

Carl Harbott made five baskets to lead McMullen, Kenny Jones made four, and Bob Wintersteller, Tom Moran and Fritz Guy each made three.

After grabbing an early six point lead, never threatened during the game, the House of David settled down to their cat and mouse act, performing such antics as playing poker while allowing McMullen free run on the floor.

Using a bucket for a basketball, and dressing Mekules in a union suit for their famous "nude ball" trick. So surprised were the Davids that when the Davids were dealing out the cards, that Kenny Jones missed a basket and brought down the house in laughter.

The game proved that basketball can do without the restrictions of calling fouls for minor body contact. Because Davids carry but five men, minor fouling is done away with, and during this particular game, only two fouls were called, both on McMullen.

In a preliminary game, the Prospect All-Stars, led by Glen Kessler, beat the Claridon Ex-Highs, 38-30. Kessler made 17 points.

Merle Lashey and George Ruth each made nine for Claridon.

Although Brooklyn's financial structures is not believed to be in as precarious a plight as that of the Rockets, whose franchise in the loop was terminated Saturday, there have been numerous hints that "fresh" money might be needed to insure a Dodge eleven next season.

Phillies' Harry Walker Hailed As N.L. Batting Champion with .363 Average

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—Harry Walker of the Philadelphia Phillies, who failed to make the grade with the Phils in 1939, was hailed today as the 1947 batting champion of the National league. The brilliant Philly outfielder finished the past season with a .363 mark, according to final official figures released by the league yesterday.

Walker, who played in 123 games with the St. Louis Cardinals before moving to the Phils where he performed in 130 more, collected 186 hits in 513 trips to the plate including a home run, three 22 doubles, 11 triples and 29 singles. His 123-baggers also topped the league.

Younger brother of the better known "Dixie", who was recently shipped from Brooklyn to Pittsburgh, Harry outdistanced Boston's Bob Elliott for the title by more than 40 points.

Elliott hit .317. The league's most valuable player, batted .317. C. C. Phil Cavarretta and Cincinnati's Augie Galan wound up in a tie for third place with .304 marks.

Rounding out the top ten are Ralph Kiner, Pittsburgh, .304; Stan Musial, St. Louis, .303; George Kurovski, St. Louis, .302; George Mauer, Boston, .301; Tommy Holmes, Boston and Pete Reiser, Brooklyn, .299; and Dixie Walker, .298.

The 29-year old Harry was of the Phillies spring training in 1939 but was sent to Peoria, of the Southeastern league, and released at the end of the 1939 season.

Kiner and New York's Johnny Mize grabbed most of the slugging honors. Each banged 35 homers to share the lead in that department while Kiner hit for the most total bases, 361. Mize batted in the most runs, 138, and scored the most, 137.

Individual Laurels
Remaining individual laurels were gained by Eddie Miller of Cincinnati, Jackie Robinson of Brooklyn, Red Schoendienst of St. Louis and Holmes.

Miller collected the most doubles, 38; Robinson made the most sacrifices, 28, and stole the most bases, 98; Schoendienst went to bat the most times, 659; and Holmes garnered the most hits, 191, and the most singles, 146.

Varipapa Wins All-Star Individual Championship
By The Associated Press
CHICAGO, Dec. 15.—Andy Varipapa of Hempstead, N. Y., making bowling rivals who said he was a cutie, who couldn't be a champion, eat their words in his guap.

Varipapa last night won his second straight National All-Star individual match game championship last night came in the last game of a four-till set with runner-up Joe Wilman of Chicago. Wilman took the first two games. But Handy Andy grabbed the third and with the $2,000 prize riding on the last game, he shot Wilman 236 to 215. That gave Varipapa a 17-pin margin over Wilman, 13,448 to 13,431, in the 64 games.

One-Woman Bureau

Aids Homeless Folks

By The United Press

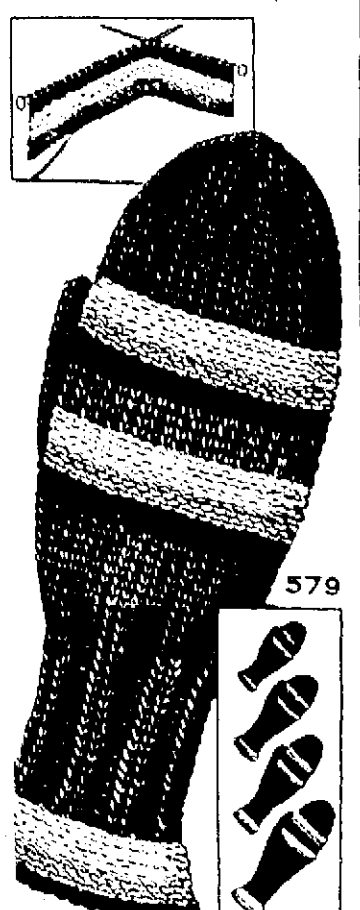

ANN ARBOR, Mich.—A 25-year-old mother, Mrs. Dennis Kuhn, is becoming the unofficial housing expediter of Ann Arbor. Mrs. Kuhn offered a room for rent in a housing-hungry town that has some 20,000 University of Michigan students.

Applicants converged on her six-room house. They flooded her rooms, lined up outside, and rang the telephone incessantly.

With the aid of the local newspaper and radio station, Mrs. Kuhn then invited Ann Arbor residents to make rooms available in their homes and register them with her. Offers poured in.

She invited homeless persons to register and began directing the most needy to the places available.
